

Breastmilk:
A Sustainable Resource

The Florida Lactation Consultant Association presents its biennial conference Earth Day 2018.

Register today!

Dear Colleagues,

The Florida Lactation Consultant Association is comprised of healthcare professionals dedicated to the protection and promotion of human lactation. As such, we are pleased to offer continuing education opportunities which appeal to lactation consultants, registered nurses, therapists, physicians and other providers seeking to advance their knowledge and understanding of human lactation. You are invited to register for our biennial conference which will take place on Saturday, April 21, 2018.

This one day conference, Breastmilk: A Sustainable Resource, will be held at Orlando Regional Medical Center in beautiful downtown Orlando, Florida. The central proximity permits conference attendance from across the state of Florida along with easy airport access for our southeastern United States attendees.

With much anticipation for a successful event featuring timely topics such as maternal mental health plus mindful communication while sustaining the resource of breastmilk, we warmly welcome you to the FLCA Conference this April 21, 2018. Please visit www.flca.info using the 2018 Conference tab to view featured speakers, conference agenda, suggested hotel accommodations and registration information.

Warmly,

Laene Keith, President
Florida Lactation Consultant Association
